

Lash Extension 2022 Trends

We love to talk about fun beauty trends. Modernized mullet, bright neon glow in the dark shadows, graphic eyeliner-only looks, blush that makes a statement, we do it all! However, makeup artist experts and lash specialists anticipate that 2022 makeup styles will be more fearless, exploratory, imaginative, and with more emphasis on the eyes. This idea comes from the effects of wearing a mask across the face during a pandemic. As a result, the eyes were the only feature noticeable for some time, giving us time to perfect our eye looks.

Eyes are not linear. They come in different shapes and sizes. No two sets of eyes are the same; experts find lashes are different too. As a result of these findings, lash extensions come in different styles, shapes, lengths, etc. Your stylist can help you determine what look would fit your individual features best. Your lash artist can mix different lash styles to create a look that makes your eyes stand out from the crowd. The most recent trends are texture, curls, and ornaments. Yes. We said ornaments! Exciting, I know. Below you'll find a short list of the most recent lash extension trends for 2022.

LASH EMBELLISHMENT

A fascinating makeup trend you'll see all over your TikTok for your page or your Instagram feed is embellishments. Crystal stones, small heart-shaped cutouts, or glitter are glued to the lash's end. This creative style adds an extra accessory to your festival or concert outfit. It's similar to adding embellishments to the face but with some 3D action. This look compliments the inside corner of the eye, the brow, your cheekbones, and now your lash extensions!

They may look scary and intimidating, but embellishment jewels are simple and add flair to any lash look.

The WET Lashes

For some time now, we've ditched our full coverage foundations due to wearing life-saving masks during the pandemic's beginning. Instead, we let our natural skin shine in the sunlight; as a result, 2022 is about a natural light coverage look. Lash extension experts and lovers have opted for a natural-looking lash extension style, one that matches every "natural" look you can dream up. Dewy skin is still an ongoing trend since before the pandemic, and now you can pair it with dewy or wet lash extensions. Wet-look lash style is not a new trend, but we're bringing it into this next year! Wet lashes are here to stay.

This style is similar to the wet volume lashes you're familiar with. You've probably seen it when you look in the mirror just after the lash stylist cleans you up. The look is made using very thin lash extensions.

KIM KARDASHIAN Falsie LASH STYLE

As you can tell by the name of this trend, this style was started by the queen, Kim Kardashian. The look is differentiated by volume lashes blended with spikes of longer-length lashes, giving a distinctive look to the eyes. This distinctive lash look stands out because longer lash stands are included between the regular lash extension set—the extensions alternate. There are two different ways to pull off this wispy look. First, you can increase the drama with very full standard lashes and longer wisps. The second option is to pick inconsequential all-over lashes, allowing the lengthy lashes to boost your normal lashes. The purpose of this style is to highlight a fuzzy look rather than a spiky one. With this look, you get the glitz and glam that Kim Kardashian's Instagram posts are known for. Also, the style is called falsies or strip lashes for some stylists.

COLORED EYELASH EXTENSIONS

Bright-colored lash extensions used to be seen on flamboyant clients. It wasn't very common for most of the lash extension community, but it was possible. Now that we know this trend isn't necessarily new, we can see why this trend is so popular in 2022. Neon eyeshadows and eyeliners have made this trend easier to rise in popularity. It's easy to add colored lashes to any vivid look. This trend is made for you if you're one for eccentric makeup looks. If you're someone who prefers a more natural look but would like a touch of color from time to time, this trend is for you. Colored lash extensions can be full or thin, meaning we can do that if you'd like just the corner of the eye to be vivid. Or we can add all colored lash extensions to your look.

Makeup these days is so versatile, which is why we believe this lash look started from the shaded colored mascaras. Mascaras can add glam to any look, but for some people, these shaded-colored mascaras did not work well and were difficult to see. For those who feel that mascara is too heavy on your eye or takes too much time to put on or take off, lash extensions are a great alternative.

For an exceptional colored eyelash service, schedule an appointment with Bloom Studios. Ask them about the different styles they offer, and bring your headphones or a blanket to the service. Some people fall asleep during the service because it's a long appointment and relaxing.

OMBRE EYELASH EXTENSIONS

If you're familiar with the ombre hairstyle, then you already have some idea of what this trend looks like. This extension is half black lashes and half color. You can choose pink for the tips of the lashes and keep the extension root black. Bloom Studios has a variety of colors available to choose from but call ahead and ask to ensure they have the products and colors you'll need for your individual lash look.

WHITE EYELASH EXTENSIONS

Pinterest's most recent lash extension searches show that white eyelashes have become very popular. Searches have increased by over 4800%. That's a lot of people searching for one style of lashes! Also known as the "Salt and Pepper lash expansion, the new trend is created by blending white-colored lashes with your own dark lashes. The white lashes are arranged near the root of your own lash or the tips, creating a fluffier look. This look is described as strong yet not overpowering.
